Thank you, Bao.

Regarding the patent documents, I received them. After I get the stock certificates, and successfully transfer them to the charities of my choice, then I will rethink the issue.

Currently, I am of the opinion that the end does not justify the means: assisting what I perceive as an unethical endeavor to indirectly benefit a good cause is not acceptable. Especially since the amount of good benefit is dwindled by the monetary empowerment which unscrupulous individuals will gain, thus encouraging future immoral ventures. Nevertheless, I will continue to reassess Align's course on a regular basis, always hoping that Align's fantastic technology may find a positive, nurturing environment to grow within or outside Align; at which time I'd be delighted to offer any assistance I can to enable it to treat patients.

Cheers!

Toli
